MANAGEMENT TRAINER

LifeNet International is a US-based NGO creating innovative solutions to meet the health challenges that currently face the poor in East Africa. LN operates a health center training network for faith-based facilities here in Uganda. LN provides ongoing medical training to our health center and hospital partners, and we work to make a difference by improving health outcomes for mothers, children and infants. LN aims to improve the quality of care and financial sustainability of our health partners to transform African health care and impact Ugandans in a positive way.

Job Description: LN is currently recruiting a Management Trainer (MT) to carry out training of management staff of LN partner health centers. The MT will be responsible for on-site training from the LN standard management curriculum, as well as performing the monitoring and evaluation of subjects taught through the training. The MT reports directly to the Management Team Leader.

Working in the roles of leader and trainer, we need a confident, knowledgeable person that is also teachable and a desire to improve. In the context of providing training, it is expected that the LifeNet curriculum will be adhered to at all times, using best practices and evidence-based solutions to provide the best up-to-date care possible. For our training style, we are looking for those who are flexible, questioning, friendly and open. As we provide training, we also learn from one another.

Through monitoring and evaluation, the MT will be responsible for measuring the impact of each training, and will always report the results to the Management Team Leader. The MT will also learn to accept responsibility for generating quarterly reviews and assessments for our health center partners using LifeNet tools and resources.
